MEMORANDUM FOR MR. EDDY
GENERAL CHAMBERLIN
ADMIRAL INGLIS
GENERAL McDONALD

2 December 1946

Subject: Intelligence Terminology

- Enclosure A. List of Intelligence Terms Requiring Definition
B. List of Intelligence Terms Defined in the Proposed
Joint Dictionary of Military Terms for Army-Navy
Use (JCS)

1. In its interdepartmental relations as well as in internal procedures the Central Intelligence Group has encountered numerous instances of uncertainty in the use of various intelligence terms. On several occasions differences in usage have caused misunderstandings which have adversely affected negotiations with the IAB agencies.

2. For some time CIG has been engaged in assembling those terms which appear to require clarification, but before arriving at a determination of their definitions it is desired, insofar as possible, to incorporate the agencies' individual interpretations. It is therefore requested that each agency submit its definitions of the terms in which they have an interest appearing in Enclosure A, together with any additional ones considered to be in loose usage.

3. It is considered that the development of these definitions should be in the comprehensive manner of professional dictionaries to become really useful to the Government. It is therefore suggested that in arriving at the definitions, dictionaries, encyclopedias and the professional manuals of the State, War and Navy Departments be consulted and followed insofar as practical. Definitions should be so worded as to be useful in as broad a field in the Government as possible.

4. Upon receipt of these definitions it is proposed to arrive at mutually acceptable definitions which then will be published as the standard for adoption by all Government intelligence agencies.

5. Enclosure B contains a list of intelligence terms or military terms used in intelligence which are defined in the proposed Joint Dictionary of Military Terms for Army-Navy use (JCS). Certain recommendations were made to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for desirable revisions of some of these terms, and therefore further definitions are not desired.
